Equine massage therapy system

Niagara Equissage has been widely used by top trainers and competitors overseas. Now it is available in the United States through Equine Products

LLC. The equine massage therapy system is comprised of three individual components—a massage pad, a handheld massage unit and a leg boot—and is effective in providing relief and benefit to the skeletal, muscular, circulatory and lymphatic systems.

The pad is designed to fit over the saddle area or around the chest, and administers massage therapy to help reduce swelling, improve joint mobility, release tension and treat pulled muscles, tendons and ligaments. The separate hand unit can be used with the boot and provides deep, circulatory massage to prevent and tendon injuries, as well as problems.

In addition to the benefits massage provides when used during warm-up prior to competition, the Equissage system can be equated as part of a cool-down routine.

Retro style

Sporting a style inspired by the Old West, the retro design of the Western Legend Series of saddle pads from White Eagle Saddle Pad Company gives the pad a custom-made look that transitions easily from recreational use to the show ring.

Designed to fit all Western saddles, the all-purpose saddle pads feature either round or square skirting, and the soft, natural earth-tone and jewel-tone color choices are complemented with high-quality embossed leather accents. The outer shell is constructed of cotton canvas with two layers of half-inch felt hand-sewn through the center. For the horse's comfort, the bottom is covered in thick, plush cotton fleece. In addition, hand-crafted piping helps the pad stay put under the saddle.
