

The ADVOCATE & Greenwich Time

BUSINESS WITH

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL SUNDAY.

Kathleen O'Rourke/Staff photo

Charles Lynch, left, vice president of NetJets, and John DiRocco of Wilton stand inside a Cessna Citation Excel. DiRocco is a client of NetJets and uses the company's jets at least once a week.

Contributed photos

Each day, NetJets has about 30 aircraft flying in and out of the airport in White Plains, N.Y. This year, NetJets will fly 250,000 flights to more than 140 countries using 2,800 pilots.

Fractional jets: Businesses buy, individuals fly

100s of Greenwich owners;
half are hedge funds

Are jets executive tools?
Or just expensive toys?